TNA PRESIDENT'S LETTER Kirk Menczer

This issue I'd like to discuss Y2K and what can we do to protect ourselves

Y2K, simply put, is the mability of computers to change from the year 1999 to 2000 and the resulting problems from such system failures. These problems are the result of programming ie if you use 98 for 1998 and 99 for 1999, when you use 00, the computer doesn't know it it's 1900 or 2000 and calculations using this date are a problem. Then there are imbedded chips. These are chips that are programmed at manufacture and never change. Many of these also contain dates used by the computer. These must be replaced to prevent a malfunction.

So how bad will it be? Nobody knows. As an owner of a coin shop. I get a lot of exposure to the element expecting a more extreme problem. These are not "crazies" or "conspiracy theory" fanatics but intelligent, successful people who believe the problem is too big to be solved in the time available and a domino effect will create massive problems. Many are computer professionals. At the other extreme, there's the "head in the said" approach adopted by the majority of people. These people assume, it's being taken care of. My exposure to the first group, has forced me to abandon my position in the later group.

Assuming one doesn't want to bet everything that a disaster will occur as many of the first group are doing. What reasonable actions can the average person take? Should be do anything?

It's not my position to tell anyone what they should do but as a CPA for over 25 years I'm reasonably conservative by nature. Like a good boy scont, I want to "be prepared". I have insurance for my home. I have insurance for my businesses. My approach to Y2K is thinking in terms of insurance. That is, what is the cost to me to have a reasonable amount of protection in the case of disaster? I don't want to be in a position to take advantage of others in the event of Y2K chaos, but I don't want to be a victim either.

Let's look at some possibilities and the cost if Y2k is NOT a problem

Food-Three months of non perishables for a family of four, costs about $750 to $1,000. If Y2K is no problem, eat the food, drink the water

Energy-Cord of firewood for heating $160, four tanks of propane for cooking $120. Both of these vou'll use eventually, except the three extra tanks (cost $70).

Fill your car with gas on 12-31-99

Cash ($10,000)- Cost of lost interest 12-15-99 to 1-15-00, $5

Bag ($1,000 face) 90% silver. Cost today $5,250, dealer bijy price $4,800 today. Loss $450 plus reduction in premium if Y2k doesn't materialize est. $ additional 200

100 1/10 oz. American Gold Eagles- Cost $3,650. Dealer bity price about $3,100. Potential loss $550.

This is not intended to be a complete list of items one niight want to have as protection against Y2K. You could mix and match or add items. It's the thought process I'm trying to illustrate.

To have all the items 1 listed requires about $20,000, if there's not a problem by 1-10-2000 you could have back $17,700. Simply deposit the cash, sell the 90% and 1/10 oz eagles. Out of pocket expenditure at this point is $2,300. Of that, you will eventually use the food/water, wood, and proprine at a cost of $1,210. Final net cost for protection about $1,100 plus some imputted interest.

Analyzed in these terms. I believe we can provide ourselves a great deal of protection at a very reasonable cost. This analysis assumes bullion prices remain the same. Many people expect them to rise. Very tecent events seems to bear this out.

Whether you opt to try to acquire some Y2k protection or not is your decision. But 1 sincerely hope you consider the possibilities and make an informed decision. Don't stick your head in the sand as I might have

TNA CONVENTION

BOOK AUCTION

Last year's book anction brought in over $350,00 at the convention in Houston. A large number of ANA Nimismatist magazines and TNA News were sold along with a wide variety of other nimismatic books and literature. One beautiful book on Greek Coins donated by Jeffrey Meyer brought in a nice price many times over the minimum bid. Three books by Grove on Mexican Tokens and Medals had been donated by Don Bailey. TNA bourse dealer, from Michigan. He has already generously donated 2 more of these books for our 1999 anction.

A big thank you to Courtney Coffing of Iola Wisconsin who is TNA Life Member 25. He sent us 9 copies of some books that he had a part in producing The U.S. Post Office failed to deliver these to me initial after the 1998 anction They will be in our 1999 anction.

Many TNA officers and Governors gave books to the auction and they also helped with the work of the auction. All of the above made this a very successful anction-not only in finds brought in to TNA, but in the distribution of numusmatic literature at very reasonable prices.

Please keep all of this in mind and contribute at least on book to the auction in May. If you have an entire minismatic literature collection to donate, please contact me

EXHIBITS

We will have the front area of the hall for exhibits tables. This was a lot of him for the people setting up and those that came by to see the exhibits. There were some wonderful items set up last year and we are sure to have even better ones this year. There was one of the best Quarter collections seen. Gary Hill tried to win first place for the second year in a row, but was beat out by an exhibit that was beautiful.

If you would fike to enter the exhibit competition for fun or to win an award please contact

COINS FOR A's

Jim and Barbara Medford

Since our last report, there has been an unbelievable outpouring of generosity to the TNA Coins for A's program. We would like to thank the following clubs and individuals on behalf of all the young people who have been enjoying this program so much

Alex Siegel	$25.00
Fort Worth Com Club	$100.00
Williamson County Coin Club	$50.00
Gerry D. Kammer	$50.00
Paul Garner	$50.00
Waço Com Club	$100.00
Total	$775.00

Also. Warren Street made us a gift of a nice set of wartime steel dimes. We have submitted an expense report in the amount of $40.44, which includes postage and a purchase of some U.S. coms. In our last article, we reported a balance in the Coins for A's account of $489.33. This report brings that balance to $1.223.89.

In an attempt to do a little better job of retiring, we are now passing this program on to someone else. This might be bad news if it were not for the fact that Gary Hill, presently the 2nd Vice President of TNA had not agreed to assume the responsibilities. Gary is also a member of the Mid-Cities Com Club, the sponsoring club for the Coms for A's program, and we have known him for a long time. His wife Cindy is going to assist him with the record-keeping, and his knowledge of coms and love of working with young people make him imiquely qualified to take up the program. Over the year and a half we have been in charge of Coms for A's we have been in contact with many fine, hard-working young people and had the pleasure of becoming acquainted with dozens of coin collectors from all over the country who have contributed to and supported our efforts. We want to thank them all!

TREASURE OF XERXES HUGE HOARD OF SHLVER BURIED CIRCA 450 BC

And now, as he looked and saw the whole Hellespont covered with the vessels of his fleet and all the shore and every plain about Abydos as full as possible of men. Nerses congratulated himself upon his good fortune, but after a little while he wept. His uncle Artabanus, who was with him at the time, asked about this strange expression of contradictory feelings. "I was thinking," Nerses replied, "and it came into my mind how puffully short human life is."

Herodotus 171, 45-46

This moment in history described by the ancient historian Herodotus was perhaps one of the greatest military undertakings in history given the current technology. The accounts relate that the great Persian king Nerves amassed an army of 1 700,000 men for his invasion of Greece in 480 BC. An entire city was needed to feed the army just two meals, and an entire river ran dry when they drank. And linge quantities of silver coins were struck to finance the massive military payroll and all the expenses of huge military operations. The Hellespont was the water way at least a mile wide connecting the Black Sea and the Mediterranean Sea and separating Europe from Asia Almor. In order to move his vast army Xeries commanded his engineers, mostly Phoenecians and Egyptians, to build a bridge. To do this 674 ships were tred together in a double row and planks were laid over the decks. The planks were covered with brushwood and dirt to create a road. Xerxes invaded Greece and very nearly succeeded in conquering the civilized world.

As the Persians moved through northern Greece they were met at the pass of Thermopylae, where the 300 Spartans led by Leonidas lought to the last man, and successfully delayed the Persian advance long grough for the Greek cities to prepare Although Nerves captured Athens, the Athenians had fled with their fleet to the nearby island of Salamis where the Persian fleet was deleated by the more experienced. Athenian navy The army of the allied Greek city-states, led by Spartans was able to deteat the Persian army at Plataea in 479 BC and effectively ended Nerves attempted conquest of Greece.

Nerves is long dead, and his observations on the brevity of human existence still applies today, even though we average more than twice the usual life span of the ancients. By collecting, studying and handling the coins of the ancients our human experience can be greatly enhanced. In our hands we have relies of great kings who commanded huga rimes to conquer kingdoms now vanished. These hinge treasures of precious metals that are now unearthed from the paths of these ancient armies are sometimes the only tangible links that we have. Now you can expand your horizons to the Fifth Century BC with a modest contribution to the Jonathan K. Kern Co.

This hoard of silver was composed of over 100 points of struck siglor. A single siglor averages 5.55 grains of nearly pine silver and depicts the Great King of Persta as an archer in an action pose. Some interpret his postine as the archare art expression of rimining and others describe him as kneeding. These coms were struck with a heavy sledge hammer on very thick oblong planchets, much like silver brillets with a heavy sledge hammer on very thick oblong planchets, much like silver brillets with a heavy sledge hammer in very thick oblong planchets, much like silver brillets with a heavy sledge hammer in very died of the objecting the archer the lower die was probably imbedded in wood or stone to secure it. The lower or reverse die of these coms was used in the manner of the very first coms ever produced in the world. This lower die was a roughly rectangular raised metal limp, appearing in hindreds of inveterious variations. The tarsed reverse die creates an mense impression for the backs of the siglor. Museum studies now in progress inthize the reverse incused impressions for quick die referencing, since the obverse impression of the Great King is frequently off center. These coms represented a linge explosion in the production of coined money, and were struck rapidly to fill the need for pre-weighed silver authorized by a powerful ruler.

The Great King is shown holding a spear and a bow on the sigkor attributed to the Asia Minor mint of Sarders in Evdia and a bow and a diagger on the other type which is possibly all from a different nint further south. Frequently they are countermarked with tiny punches by merchants of bankers, possibly to attest to the quality of the silver. We can sell either type in a rice line grade for $37 each a nice very line for $77 each or a nice extremely line for $277 each. The russed obverse always grades much less than the incread reverse so our nice line will result be have an extremely line reverse.

DALLAS SECOND TIME AROUND BY Gayle Pike

Here we are in Dallas again. This years auction may not be quite as historic as the J.L. Irish sale last year bit it still retains some of the magic. The show itself has doubled in size to 73 tables and some of the deafers that did not do the show or auction last year didn't want to miss it this year. There were some duplicate notes from the Irish collection which garnered excitement from Texas collectors getting a second chance phis additional excitement over the new offerings of Texas notes.

As you approach the registration desk, you first notice the display form the Texas Heritage Archives and Library that is located in Jefferson. TX. The Executive Director, Charles S. Chitwood is glad to give you the tom and tell you all about the extensive "Texana" collection. On display at the museum is the Texas national bank note collection of B.B. Barr. Many of the notes in this collection can be pedigreed to Amon Carter. The obsolete collection of John N. Rowe III is also on display making this the largest group of Texas notes on display. There are over 600 maps of Texas dating from 1513 and the research library according to Mr. Chitwood is "all things Texas." It mehides some of the first publications about Texas. There were some very interesting plaques for sale with pictures of the notes that one might see on display at the museum.

Entering the bourse room, the activity of the enlarged bourse is quite evident. The activity on Thursday was good but as collectors started to arrive on Friday for the anction, the volume level tripled.

Dave Koble of Bartlesville, Oklahoma said business was brisk in large type and nationals. Pointing at a lovely display of 7 AU Chief Notes, one dealer asked Dave how he got them. Another dealer, hearing the comment, replied "Dave can't keep his hand down at anctions, that's how." Koble took the teasing in stride and laughingly said that he would have to learn to keep his baild down. I asked Dave what he thought about the approaching first session to which he replied. "There are so many small size star rainties, notably in the silver certificates from the Tompson Collection."

The name change of the hotel from Medallion to Renaissance had several collectors taking the scenic route around Dallas to the wrong hotel. The only problem with the show was created by renovations at the hotel. New tile was being laid and at times the smell of the solvents permeated the air and gave some dealers headaches and created a shortage of aspirin at the show.

Lon Rasera of Woodland Hills, California said "I came to bity and bought stuff on my want list but its always not enough. We'll see what happens in the anction"

One of the auctioneers. Ron Guth, was walking around the bourse floor when he spotted a dealer vawning and wanted to know if that was a bid

Late Friday afternoon, Kent Robertson of Brandon, Mississippi said "The show is excellent-tremendous, at his point one of my three or four best shows of the year"

PAANEWS

Andrew Shiva, a noted coffector from New York, took a table. "It's a big difference having a place where you can piit all your stuff and come back to. It is furnly to see the looks on people's faces when they see my name attached to a table. It's firm to display notes for anyone who wants to stop and look. A note in some cases that people may have never seen and most members of the general public have most certainly never seen. I am enjoying it but some of my fellow colleges tell me I am not spending enough time at my table because my main interest in being here is not to deal but to work on my own coffection"

Lyn's wife Debbie was in charge of auction lot viewing. She is frequently helped by one or more of her sisters. This time she is being helped by all four sisters. Debbie sports a shirt that says I'm Debbie, while each of her sisters wears a shirt that says I am not Debbie. I am her sister. This is the first time the five sisters have all worked together at an anction. All of the sisters look alike and it has gotten to be a running joke as to which one is Debbie. I know in Memphis I was certain I was talking to Debbie-I wasn't - it was her sister. Apparently this is a big problem which they solved with a sense of himor. A sign behind the anction viewing tables says--- If you have a question feel free to ask. If you want the correct answer - Ask Debbie!

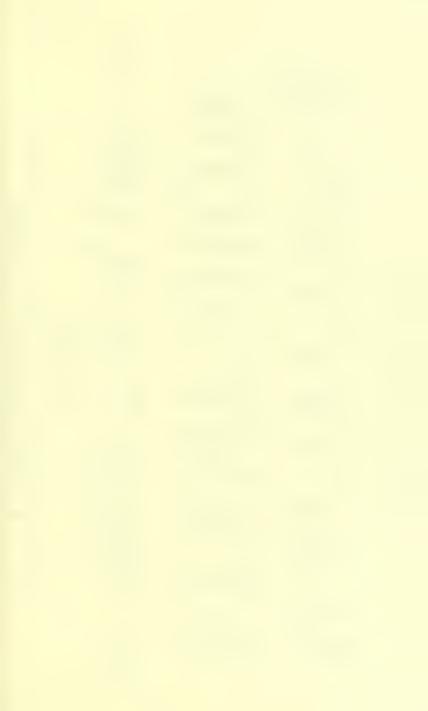

Prior to the first anction session, a gournet least was served compliments of Lyn. A feast it was. There were all kinds of hors d'ocuvres and linger sandwiches. There were travs of vegetables, frints and cheese and dips to compliment them. And then there was the pasta. A chef prepared and served 2 different types of fresh pasta. And the most amazing thing was there was enough for everyone.

Quite stuffed, we proceeded to the auction—Session one started a little late due to a previous function in the room but no one cared as we were still talking about the great food. The auctioneers for the evening will be Hal Hinit and Ron Guth—L for one, am glad there will be two—Last year Hal Hinit called the entire auction and while he made it look easy, it must have been grueling. One well known dealer races out the door just prior to the start to get a bidder number—Seeins he had been so busy doing sales on the floor and anction lot viewing, that he had forgotten to get a number—I langh as one dealer is chewing giim to the cadence of the auctioneer—The crowd is good and the bids strong. There will be some competition tonight.

Lot #1 is a scarce antographed 1928 Legal Tender with a low serial number of 186. It was estimated at $400-800 and sold to the book for $1500.

Lot #3 a 1928 A star in gem CU was estimated at $3000-5000 sold for $7000. Lot #46 is a solid "9" serial number 1928 A in choice CU. It opened to the book for $2500 and sold for $3200.

Shortly after lot 50 we depart to meet my friend Lee Abramson of Heritage for dinner. Lee takes us to a lovely Cajun restaurant known for its deserts. Still stuffed from dinner we opt for just desert. As we arrive back at the hotel we are greeted by PCDA President. Joe Sande, of Nichols, Florida who has stepped outside for some fresh air and stretch. Hi informs its that the 1928 C Cleveland Star Federal reserve note just sold for $23,000.

Ljoin some friends in the bar for a drink and intended to rejoin the auction later during the errors, obsolete and confederate but alas the first session ended and needless to say I never made it. Time does seem to fly when you are having firm. Several friends joined the group at the close of the first session and filled nie in on all the action.

Lot 317 a 1934 B Gem CU $10 Silver Certificate opened at $5000 and brought $12,000 to a floor bidder

Lot 534 a Gem CU $100 1934 B Dallas Federal Reserve Note sold to the book for $2500

Lot 575 opened at $15,000 and brought $20,000 to a floor bidder. The note was a $5,000 1928 Atlanta Federal Reserve Note with a low serial miniber.

Lot 590 Was a gem 1934 $10 North Africa. It opened at $7500 and brought $15,000 on the floor.

Lot 714 a 1976 Chicago Gem CU $2 note known as the "Infamous Yellow Deuce" had an opening bid of $3200 and sold on the floor for $5500

Lot 916 a Santa Clause Note from Boston that was listed as a possible contemporary counterfeit brought $350.

Lot 1066 a Confederate $100 T-5 opened to a book bid of $800 and brought $1200 to a floor bidder

Saturday at the show was a busy day. The room was filled with people most of the day. Frank Clark, SPMC Vice President, hosted a SPMC meeting and gave a program on Denton. Texas National Banks and their notes.

Lyn Knight and his wife. Debbie will celebrate their 18th wedding anniversary on Sunday. Lyn wanted to surprise Debbie and that he did. Lyn planned another labilious buffet to precede the second session of the anction. Just prior to the buffet being served an accordion player began to stroll into the bourse room playing the Anniversary Waltz. This was followed by a linge cake decorated with sugar flowers and laden with genuine orchids and a plaque which read. Lyn and Debbie 18 years together. One of Debbie's sisters snapped photos as Debbie gave Lyn a big hing and kiss.

The second session of the auction started a little after 6 00pm. There was not a big crowd at the very first but people dwindled in and soon the room was full. The second session started with large size type notes.

Lot 1129 an 1880 $1 FR 32 opened at $1800 and brought $3200

Lot 1146 an 1869 FR 42 a Rambow Dence in Geni CU brought $3250

Lot 1151 a $2 1878 FR 49 brought $8000 and went to the book

Lot 1189 a $10 Gem CU 1880 "Jackass" note brought $1500

Lot 1196 a FR -115-1901 $10 Bison note in Gem CU brought $2400 to a floor bidder

Lot 1207 was a 1874 $50 Legal in CU which opened at $26,000 and brought $30,000

Anctions can be very exciting and everyone wants to get in on the act. A young couple had their small daughter with them and it did not take her long, watching her father raising his bidding card, until she figured out the routine.

TNA NI WS

She began waving her hand and when the hammer tell on a lot slie stood up and yelled with joy "I got it". Needless to say a smile came across the face of everyone in the room.

Alan Mincho, a partner in Currency Auctions of America, was seen proofing his October auction catalogue between bids

One dealer who acts as an agent was observed shuffling bidder cards like a poker hand. Nelson Clark can be seen stipping from his seat several times and returning with his trademark glass of ice tea. As I look around the room I am amazed at the amount of reference material that people bring to the auction. One bidder has several reference books stacked in front of him as he checks information prior to bidding.

There is a long pause as Lyn computes the opening bid for a particular lot from the bids received in the mail. The auctioneer attempting to fill in the time langhs and says "take a drink everybody", then raises his glass of water and toasts "here's to Lyn for dinner". Of course the auctioneer is referring to the delicions biffer served to all dealers and auction bidders prior to the anction. The auctioneer during this point of the auction is Ron Gith. Ron is a charming auctioneer who seems to be able to bring a smile to the crowd with each remark. Apparently there is a computer problem with the bid posting and the opening bid seems to have gone astray. Ron quickly quips "The year 2000 error came early. The worse thing that can happen is we will have to call the sale over again". With the computer problem fixed, the auctioneer jokingly says "Lot number one", to which everyone in the audience responds with laughter.

A feature of the auction was Lot 1312 and 1891 FR 376 Seward Note in Gem CH. The note opened to a book bid of $85,000 and after some intense bidding among several people the note sold for $155,000. The winning bidder was James Lamb of New York. James is a numisimatic agent and consultant who was formerly with Christi's for twelve years. When ask about the purchase he replied "we are absolutely delighted to get such a splendid note and actually pleased at the price as we had expected to pay more". Lou Rasera of Woodland Hills, California was the underbidder. After the auction Lon said he was disappointed at not getting this note but was hopeful to be successful getting another Seward note in the near future. According to Lyn Knight this was the second highest price ever for a note at auction.

The next lot 1313 opened at $93 and sold for $110 to which the auctioneer langlingly was heard to say "Lyn you have a very diversified auction".

The type notes ended on lot 1385 and there was a mass exodus of dealers from the room. However the national bank note collectors were ready for action. The first national lot was #1386 the First National Bank of Dozier. Alabama and went for $650 to the book. This was quickly followed by two Alaska notes. Lot 1388 from the First National Bank, lot 1389, brought $8500.

A cellular phone in the crowd rings and the auctioneer chimes "phone bid coming in"

A man sits in the back and as the state of Mississippi comes up he seems determined to purchase most of the notes on that state. His wife sits next to him with her purse on her lap, smiling smilgly, as here husband accomplishes his goal. While there was spirited bidding on several Mississippi notes, this gentleman always came out on top

The anctioneers are changing places, so a break is called. Lyn announces that there is coffee and tea in the alcove. One of the anctioneers comes back with "stimulants at Walmart". A veiled reference to the department store that is behind the hotel and to the projected late hour for the conclusion of the anction Minnesota Dealer Ed Roghberg is a frequent buyer at these auctions. Ed yells out "bid". Due to the volume he buys, he occasionally is late getting in with his bid and is the subject of good natured teasing on the subject. After a bit of teasing about a late bid. Ed laughs and says "just trying to make your life miserable, Lyn".

Steve by a known Texas national collector, came in shortly before Texas Nationals started. There was a bit of teasing from several dealer friends who inquired "Hey Steve, why are you here?", and another who said "I hear there might be some Texas notes for sale tonight". Steve took the teasing in stride and sat down to get serious as the Texas section approached. Texas picks up the speed and excitement of the auction.

Lot 2011 is the only large size note of the First National bank of Annona. Texas—It opens for $1550 and sells for $375 to Steve Ivy

Lot 2030 a serial #1 1929 Type 1 on the First national bank of Brenham, Texas opens for $400 and sold for $700 $\,$

Lot 2095 a CU $10 1902 Red Seal on the First national bank of Floresville, Texas opens for $2000 and sold for $3200 $\,$

Another well known Texas collector has a carefully prepared list of notes he wishes to add to his collection. As one particular wanted note comes up, you can see the card almost shaking and a look of determination on his face. But he is successful and adds this note to his collection. I ask him afterward about the note. He said it was the one note that he had hoped to get for his collection, even if none of his other bids were successful. Although he had paid $100 more than he had hoped to, he was still sporting a grin from ear to ear

It is amazing to watch dealers acting as agents bidding with multiple bidder cards. Each card carries its won intricate code to indicate the customer that card represents

It is time for the auctioneers to swap off again. Lyn calls a short break Standing up and stretching, he gets a broad grin on his face and says "It's not going to be as late as last year", referring to the ending time of the sale Someone among the bidders asks Lyn if he was going to lead the calisthenics, to which he did an impromptu dance

Lot 2230 has a dealer and collector battling it out, and the bid goes from a start of $350 to a final price of $1400 $\,$

At the beginning of the Waco, Texas Notes, the auctioneer announces "Lot 2287 Waco -- Waco Upo"

At the conclusion of the Texas notes, which brought strong prices, he ends with "all 1 can say is God Bless Texas". It was, after all a collection of Texas nationals that saw the beginning of this show and anction last year. It is evident that the show will become an annual August event for content collectors.

The auction ended in a grand style with a previously infreported Wyoming note being the next to last lot. The FNB of Lusk. Wyoming $10,1902 Plain Back. Serial Number 1 opened at $8000 and ultimately fetched a hammer bid of $11,000. The auction ended at 11 Hpm. Many of the bidders adjointed to the lobby bar for a quick drink and discussion of the prices that various notes brought.

Simday morning came way to early as everyone had last minite business to conclude. I ask PCDA President. Joe Sande what he thought about the weekend in general. His reply "Oh I don't know. It was active with dealers and collectors looking for material. They knew what they wanted and what they wanted to pay and many went away disappointed. And I'm leaving." With that Joe headed to the airport for his flight home.

As we took om leave, we were already anticipating next year's show at this location
